An Estill County man is being held in the Estill County Jail in lieu of a $20,000 cash bail after he assaulted another man while in a vehicle.

Estill Deputy Sheriff Russell “Doc” Morris arrested 30 year old David W. Harris of Harris-Ferry Road after he allegedly used a butcher knife to cut the throat of Tony Jordan.

Morris said they Harris was riding in the back seat of a vehicle being driven by Jason Jordan of Frames Branch. Tony Jordan was riding in the front passenger seat.

Morris said when the trio pulled up in front of 2755 Harris-Ferry Road, Harris took the knife and slit Tony Jordan’s throat causing a three and one-half inch cut that took 17 stitches to close.

Harris also cut Jason’s shoulder.

“Jason pulled Harris out of the car and gave him a pretty good thumping,” Morris said.

The report states that Rogers was unsteady on his feet and a test showed the presence of alcohol.

Brandenburg stated that while being searched at the Estill County Jail, Rogers was told to remove his shoes. He stated that Rogers reached into his shoe and grabbed a small baggie and attempted to hide it under the desk. The baggie proved to contain marijuana.

Suspected pot growers arrested on a tip

By Rhonda Smyth
CV&T News Editor

A tip from another police agency sent Irvine Division of Police Chief Brad Smith to Hood Avenue where he cited a suspected marijuana producer.

Smith's report states he acted on a tip from Ravenna Police Chief Ken White when he went to 215 Hood Avenue on March 26 where he arrested 42 year old Armeda Stallings.

On his report, Smith noted that he and White conducted a "knock and talk" at the residence and obtained verbal permission to search the mobile home in which Stallings resides.

The report states that the two officers discovered three pots containing a total of 12 marijuana plants at an average height of two feet along with a grow light.

The plants and light were taken into evidence and due to new laws pertaining to drug trafficking, Smith could only issue a citation, not execute an arrest.

Stallings will appear in Estill District Court on May 16.

Kentuckians might be fooled by weather

Without looking at the calendar, Kentuckians might easily be fooled into thinking it is early June; but in fact, spring has just begun. After the warmest winter on the record books in the Bluegrass state, spring has "sprung" very early causing some University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension specialists to gaze eerily back on a similar weather pattern in 2007.

"Temperatures soared in the second week of March with highs mostly in the 70s and some locations exceeding 80 degrees," said Tom Priddy, UK agricultural meteorologist. "Rainfall was frequent; everything is turning green much earlier than usual. You can't help but think back to 2007." During that year, spring came early and then a late Easter freeze decimated many horticultural and grain crops throughout the state. So what could growers and gardeners do to prepare for a possible late-season spring freeze?

"This pattern is all too familiar to that Easter freeze a few years ago," said Patsy Wilson, UK viticulture specialist. "The best safeguard for grapes at this point is to hold off on final pruning as late as possible." Wilson said sometimes growers find it difficult to hold off because of vineyard size. "As of right now, the grapes are still relatively dormant," she added. "But we should start seeing green tips in the next week or two and that will make many cultivars vulnerable to freeze or frost damage in Central Kentucky."

Eric Baker

Chad Lee is a grain crops specialist at UK, and he believes wheat is the biggest concern right now, but that there's really nothing growers can do about it. He said in Western and Central Kentucky, the crop has developed to the point where freeze or frost could cause damage. "Now as for corn—I know farmers are itching to plant corn," he said. "But in 2007, Kentucky growers had to replant 100,000 acres of corn. So, even though the temperatures are great, we need to wait to plant a bit longer."

UK horticultural specialist John Strang reported many horticultural crops are running three to four weeks ahead of schedule with fruit crop bloom because of unseasonably warm weather. "Temperatures of 25 to 26 now would cause serious damage to peach, plum and pear crops," he said. "Temperatures of 24 to 25 would cause serious damage to the apple crop. As bloom development progresses, the flowers will continue to lose hardiness. I usually do not begin to feel like we have avoided most of our frost chances until late April, so we have a long way to go."

Strang said commercial strawberry growers can use floating row covers to provide a few degrees of frost protection, and they may use overhead sprinkling to protect tender blooms if the predicted temperature drop is not too low and wind is minimal.

"Home strawberry growers can rake the straw back over the blooms for protection or cover the strawberries with a blanket," he said. "Anchoring the edges of the blanket down will help retain the long wave radiation or heat radiating from the soil and prevent frost injury. Covering with plastic provides little protection, and the practice of hosing the frost off of fruit crops early in the morning is not helpful."

Strang added that fruit growers should concentrate on applying their early fungicide and insecticide sprays as the crops are moving through floral developmental stages very rapidly.

Tom Priddy said temperatures have been averaging about 20 degrees warmer than normal across the state, with precipitation also a bit over the average. So after a winter that wasn't and a spring that seems to be fleeting, Priddy suggested that growers stay alert and not get too comfortable in the warm days. "There's still plenty of time for a damaging freeze or frost," he said. "We just want our Kentucky growers to be prepared."

stolen property less than $10,000, for allegedly stealing a 1998 Chevrolet Blazer that belonged to William Turner on Jan. 10.

The indictment states Howell then sold the Blazer to Charles Jones for $150. Receiving stolen property is a class D felony.

Estill Deputy Sheriff Russell "Doc" Morris appeared as a witness.

Deputy Morris appeared as a witness.

Tracy Harrison, 33, of Short Street, was indicted on one count of false statement/misrepresentation to receive benefits more than $100. The indictment states that Harrison failed to report her correct household circumstances which resulted in an overpayment of $37,061.30 from the Cabinet for Health and Family Services, a class D felony.

Floetta Brown of the Office of the Inspector General for the Division of Audits and Investigations appeared as a witness.

Fred Young Jr., of Beattyville was indicted on one count of operating motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol or drugs, fourth or subsequent offence, a class D felony.

Kentucky highway district 10 news

Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, District 10*

Estill residents invited to Highway 89 improvement meeting

Residents of Estill County are invited to attend a public informational meeting to discuss a project to improve KY 89 (North Main Street) from Rice Street in Irvine to KY 499.

The meeting will be held Tuesday, April 10 from 5-7 p.m. at the Estill Springs Elementary School. It will be an "open house" format meeting with no formal presentation.

Representatives from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet and project consultants will be available to answer questions and provide information about the project. Handouts will be available describing the project's purpose and need, the right-of-way acquisition process and potential utility relocation concerns.

A project is under consideration to reconstruct the existing portion of KY 89 to a new facility with two 12-foot travel lanes, a 12-foot center two-way left turn lane, and curbs and sidewalks. The existing road has two 10-foot travel lanes with no turn lanes or sidewalks.

Persons with disabilities who wish to attend the meeting but have special needs that require assistance should contact the project manager, Corbett Caudill, at (606) 666-8841 to request special assistance.

Weight, width restrictions on Ky 499 bridge

Weight and width restrictions have been put in place on a bridge on KY 499 at the Estill-Madison county line.

A weight limit of 9 tons and a width restriction of 14 feet are in place for the bridge crossing Drowning Creek. The restrictions were put in place after an inspection revealed deterioration of the bridge's superstructure. One-lane traffic will be maintained on the structure until repairs are made.

A suggested alternative route for vehicles exceeding the weight and width limits is KY 52 between Richmond and Irvine.

A contract for repairs to this bridge was awarded in December. Construction has not yet begun, but the work is to be completed by Nov. 15. During the project, this bridge will be closed to all traffic for not more than 30 days. A signed detour will be in place during the closure. Once the repairs are complete, the bridge will be open to normal traffic.

Estill and Madison County Libraries join Sister Libraries

The Estill County Public Library has joined with the Madison County Public Library as the fourth pair of libraries in Kentucky to participate in the Sister Library project. Through this partnership, the two libraries will share knowledge, experience, ideas, and work together on efforts to better serve their respective, and often shared, communities.

The Sister Library Project, the first of its kind in the country, started as a way for newly established libraries in the state of Kentucky to draw on the expertise and resources of larger libraries. As more partnerships have formed, the purpose of the partnerships have changed into relationships like that embodied by the Madison and Estill county libraries; taking two established libraries and finding new ways to work together. To date, six Sister Library partnerships exist with the possibility of more to come.

Starting April 1, patrons of both libraries will be able to return items in the Library-on-the-Go drop box located at the Moberly Shell Station on US 52 to better serve commuters. Estill County Library staff will visit the staff of the Madison County Library later this month, and the Madison staff will visit Estill in the month of April to get to know one another and take tours. Once the tours are finished, plans will begin for a staff exchange that will allow individuals with similar jobs to see how their counterpart goes about their work. Future plans include collaborating on bringing presenters and programs to the area that would otherwise be unfeasible, applying for joint grants, and joint staff training opportunities.

Next week is National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week

When violent storms and tornados ravaged 16 eastern Kentucky counties on the night of March 2, Kentucky State Police telecommunicators were some of the first to respond, handling urgent requests for assistance and sending emergency personnel and equipment to the stricken communities. Often working in excess of normal 12-hour shifts, they played vital roles in alerting law enforcement, fire, rescue and medical services, coordinating communications and directing help to where it was needed.

During the second week of April, Kentucky State Police telecommunicators personnel at Richmond Post in Madison County will join more than 200,000 fellow communicators throughout the United States being recognized for their long hours and dedication to public safety.

"Across the state, our telecommunicators are just a phone call away for those seeking help in times of personal crisis or community disaster," says KSP Commissioner Rodney Brewer. "They are on duty every day, every night, every weekend and every holiday, providing a calming voice to citizens in need and behind-the-scenes support to first responders on the street. Their efforts often make the difference between life and death. They have earned a well-deserved salute for their dedication and service to the Kentucky State Police and the citizens of the Commonwealth."

KSP employs 187 telecommunicators at its 16 posts throughout the state. In 2011, they handled 529,175 calls.

Richmond Post has 10 telecommunicators on staff who handle calls from Madison, Clark, Lee, Owsley, Jackson, Estill, Mercer, Jessamine, Lincoln, Boyle and Garrard counties. Last year, they responded to 22,537 calls.

The Richmond Post telecommunications team includes:

Marty Broadus, Connie Taylor, Jennifer McCracken, Darrell Melton, Nehemiah Wilkinson, Bobby Greene, Crystal Lamb, Bethany Casey, Rob Burton, and Dana Murphy.

KSP, DEA to partner on National Drug Take Back

Kentucky State Police (KSP) will partner with the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) on Saturday, April 28, in a collaborative effort to remove potentially dangerous controlled substances from home medicine cabinets. Collections will take place at the Richmond Post, 699 Eastern By-Pass; the Stanford Police Department, 401 East Main Street; and the Beattyville Police Department, 61 River Drive all locations will be open from 10 a.m., to 2 p.m.

KSP has participated in the three previous 'Take Back' days collecting 1,397 pounds of prescription medication.

•Participants may dispose of medication in its original container or by removing the medication from its container and disposing of it directly into the disposal box.

•All solid dosage pharmaceutical product and liquids in consumer containers may be accepted. Liquid products, such as cough syrup, should remain sealed in their original container. The depositor should ensure that the cap is tightly sealed to prevent leakage.

•Intra-venous solutions, injectibles, and syringes will not be accepted due to potential hazard posed by blood-borne pathogens.

•Illicit substances such as marijuana or methamphetamine are not a part of this initiative and should not be placed in collection containers.

"We believe in keeping drugs off the streets of Kentucky" commented Captain Lisa Rudzinski, Richmond Post Commander "If any citizen wants to dispose of unwanted or unneeded prescription medicine this is a great opportunity."

Rhonda's Remarks

Not drinking Starbucks might show a little smarts

I am a coffee purist. I like strong, black coffee with a little sweetener. I don't like any kind of fancy coffee, cappucino or frappacino. Seems like I may be a little smarter than I thought I was, since it came out last week that Starbucks uses cochineal extract to color their popular strawberry frap-pacino. What, you might ask, is cochineal extract? It is derived from a South American insect and is what makes the strawberry flavored item have the pink color. It is also used in their strawberry velvet whoopie pies.

Apparently Starbucks isn't the only franchise that uses insect extract to add color to a product. It is also used in gelatins, fruit juices and other foods as well as makeup items. Well..huh. I heard a nutritionist talking about the little bugs from which the pink color is extracted and she said nutronially speaking, it wasn't bad for you. Not bad for you? Does that mean it's good for you? This is kind of disturbing news coming as it has on the heels of the news about the "pink slime" added to hamburger meat.

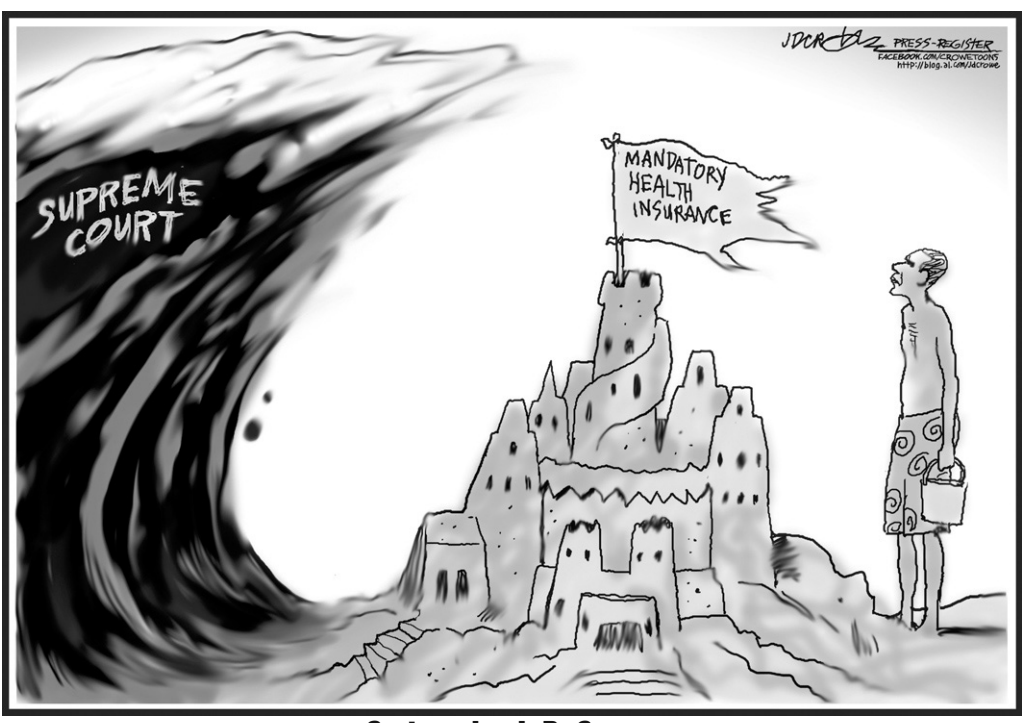

Rhonda Smyth
News Editor

Remember the red dye scare a few years ago? My kids loved cherry jello, cherry popcicles and cherry Kool-Aid but I, being the good mother that I am, boycotted anything with red dye in it. So they learned to love other flavors. Will Starbucks customers who are addicted to strawberry flavored menu items change flavors or do they care that they are drinking bugs? I can't answer for them, because, like I said, I am not a fan of Starbucks anyway. So this has got me wondering about what else is in our processed food that is either not on the label or is so carefully disguised that we won't recognize it. Periodically I decide to watch what I eat, count carbs, calories and fats so I read labels meticulously and don't buy anything loaded with those three things. But do I pay attention to the labels if I intend to eat it no matter what is in it? No, I don't. Here is the label information on one of my favorite snacks. Do you think I ate it anyway? Ingredients: Enriched corn meal (corn meal, ferrous sulfate, niacin, thiamin monoitrate, riboflavin and folic acid), vegetable oil (corn, canola, soybean and sunflower oil), cheese seasoning (whey and less than 2 percent of the following: cheddar cheese (milk, cheese cultures, salt, enzymes), partially hydrogenated soybean oil, canola oil, maltodextrin (made from corn) sour cream 9cultured cream, skim milk) salt, whey protein concentrate, monosodium glutamate, natural and artificial flavors, lactic acid, citric acid, artificial color (including yello number six) and salt. CONTAINS MILK INGREDIENTS. (I don't know what the significance of this being in bold print is.) Now we come to the fun part. This one ounce snack has 160 calories, 10 grams of fat, 290 milligrams of sodium, 15 grams of carbohydrates and two grams of protein. So am I going to eat it anyway...yep. Because it also has no cholesterol nor trans fats.

Ted's Frankfort Report

State budget to reduce spending by $300 million

With the final day of this year's session fast approaching, we gave final passage on Friday to a $19 billion state budget agreement that will reduce spending by over $300 million over the next two years while preserving funding for critical areas like Corrections and Medicaid and protecting base funding for our public schools. It took about three days in a special budget conference committee composed of both House and Senate leaders to hash out the agreement in House Bill 265, which will hold down new state debt over the next biennium to less than half of the $968 million proposed in the governor's budget in January. The agreed-upon budget also requires the governor to come up with another $80 million in savings to help bridge a $742 million gap between state revenues and spending for fiscal years 2012 through 2014. The final budget includes many provisions that were unchanged from the governor's original plan: No state-employee salary increases or retiree cost-of-living increases are included in either year of the biennium. There's an additional 8.4 percent in cuts to most state agency budgets. Increased funding is rare, in only a very limited number of areas like social services. We agreed to beef up the "rainy day" Budget Reserve Trust Fund that helps the state meet eligible "necessary" expenses that aren't part of the approved state budget. The operational budgets for the Legislative and Judicial branches would also suffer 8.4 percent cuts and no salary or cost-of-living increases for employees or retirees. Any loose legislative ends left after this week can be tied and knotted on April 12, which is both the next day that we meet and the last day of this 60-day 2012 Regular Session. Between now and then, the governor will have 10 days (excluding Sundays) to consider vetoes to bills we passed in recent days. It is worth noting, however, that while we can pass last-minute bills on April 12, doing so will forfeit any chance we would have to override vetoes of those bills. That's why we tried to pass the budget bills and other key legislation before we left town on Friday specifically to ensure that we have recourse, should the governor strike all or parts of that legislation down with his veto pen. One of those "other key bills" is SB 3, a bill that would fight the growing illegal methamphetamine trade in the Commonwealth. Makers of street meth purchase, or send out others to purchase, dozens to hundreds of boxes of pseudoephedrine tablets in products like Sudafed that are required to make the drug. SB 3 would further limit legal purchase amounts of over-the-counter pseudoephedrine from 9 grams to 7.2 grams monthly, without limiting the purchase of gel caps or liquids (which aren't converted easily to meth), or drugs dispensed by valid prescription. Block lists would keep the tablets from being sold to methamphetamine offenders, while pharmacies would be required to keep detailed electronic, rather than just written, records of buyers of the over-the-counter meds. Dozens of other bills, as expected, cleared the General Assembly and made it to the governor's desk in the session's last full week. Some of those bills included: · HB 390, which will fight metal theft by restricting the sale of specific items made of copper or other valuable metals; ·SB 32, which will set up a statewide dragnet, called Blue Alert, to help catch suspects in cases involving the killing, harm or kidnapping of a law enforcement officer; ·SB 58, which will allow a law enforcement officer to arrest or cite someone for committing misdemeanor assault in a hospital ER with probable cause, even if the officer did not witness the offense; · HB 344, which will prohibit the intentional release of a feral or wild hogs or pigs into the wild, and set misdemeanor penalties for violation, and; ·HB 421, which will make it harder for shady roofing contractors to defraud homeowners by giving homeowners a five-day grace period to pay or cancel a signed roofing contract, if their homeowner's policy doesn't cover the repair work. More action will be ready to report when we return for our final day of the session on April 12, as discussed. Until then, you can always stay informed of all the action by logging onto the Legislative Research Commission website at www.lrc.ky.gov. To comment on a bill, please call the toll-free Legislative Message Line at 800-372-7181.

The inspection took two days with the inspectors then flying from Lexington to Dulles International Airport then on to the Hague.

The inspectors completed the inventory of 45 igloos containing in excess of 100,000 individual weapons in a short time period. This marks the sixteenth time that Blue Grass has been inspected by the OPCW, with every inspection showing that Blue Grass Army Depot is in full compliance with the Chemical Weapons Convention.

Programs for low-income telephone customers to change

Changes being made by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) mean an end to a program that subsidizes the cost of telephone service for low-income consumers.

"Although the Link-Up program will end April 2, 2012, the Lifeline program, which helps pay the cost of monthly phone bills for eligible consumers, will continue," Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) Chairman David Armstrong said. "We encourage eligible Kentuckians to continue to avail themselves of that program."

The end of the Link-Up program, which has provided subsidies of as much as $30 for the initial cost of telephone service, is part of an FCC effort to overhaul low-income assistance programs. The FCC is shifting the focus away from voice telephone service and toward broadband (high-speed) internet service.

In order to help qualifying Kentuckians obtain assistance, the PSC has updated its brochure, A Guide to Telephone Service Programs for Low-income Consumers. The brochure is available at <http://psc.ky.gov/agencies/psc/consumer/lifeline.pdf>.

The Lifeline program contributes up to $12.75 per month for eligible Kentucky households to maintain a single telephone line, which may be either landline or wireless.

Eligibility is determined by participation in one of several other assistance programs such as Medicaid or the Low-income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), or (as of June 1, 2012) by having a household income at or below 135 percent of the federal poverty level.

More than 250,000 Kentucky households participate in the Lifeline program, a lower proportion of households than in many neighboring states, Armstrong said. that indicates that there are money eligible Kentuckians who do not participate in the program, he said.

"Anyone who is not participating in Lifeline and who thinks their household may be eligible should consult our brochure and contact their local phone company for details on how to apply," Armstrong said.

Other changes being made by the FCC are intended to reduce waste or abuse in the subsidy programs and to begin shifting subsidies to the provision of broadband service. The Lifeline program will continue to be funded through a small surcharge on all telephone bills.

The FCC's news release on the changes can be found here: <http://www.fcc.gov/encyclopedia/lifeline-program-low-income-consumers>

The PSC is an independent agency attached for administrative purposes to the Energy and Environment Cabinet. It regulates more than 1,500 gas, water, sewer, electric and telecommunication utilities operating in Kentucky and has approximately 90 employees.

GED testing service files federal lawsuit

As most of you know, nearly 800,000 adults take the GED® test each year on their path to better jobs, training, and education. Unfortunately, there are dishonest businesses online that offer fake GED® and high school diplomas, taking advantage of these well-intentioned adults.

GED Testing Service, in conjunction with ACE, has filed a federal lawsuit to shut down a network of fraudulent websites that are unlawfully using the GED® trademark. These sites mislead adult learners and award false high school equivalency and GED® test credentials. GED Testing Service has developed a public relations campaign to inform test-takers, third-party organizations, members of the media, GED Administrators™ and state adult education directors about the lawsuit. GED Testing Service went public with the suit this morning and was featured on The TODAY Show. You can watch the video here: <http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/21134540/vp/46819628#46819628>.

As part of the campaign, GED Testing Service has created the first online repository where educators and test-takers can report suspicious websites. Visit www.GEDtestingservice.com/fraud to learn more and read the press release.

Also, our public relations campaign includes a spokesperson who personifies the hundreds of adult learners who are scammed every day. Denise Richardson, of Beloit, WI, sadly fell victim to one of these fraudulent websites, but has now gone on to pass the official GED® test and is currently enrolled at her local technical college. She truly has a remarkable story and I'd like to thank the state of Wisconsin for connecting us with Denise.

If for any reason, you are asked a question regarding the lawsuit, please direct the inquiries to Armando Diaz, who is the public affairs specialist at GED Testing Service. Armando will be handling all questions and inquires dealing with the lawsuit and I've included his full contact information below.

"...the best benefit of this program is that it literally cut our electric use in half!"

Rita Chrisman was so impressed with the impact her Jackson Energy Prepay Meter had on her energy bill that she sat down and wrote a letter!

In her letter, Rita explains that previously her winter electric bills would run above $500, but with the new Prepay Meter, bills dropped to just above $200...who wouldn't be excited with savings like that! She does such a great job of explaining how it works that we have posted her letter on our MyJacksonEnergy.com website for all members to read.

Thanks for sharing, Rita! Because of your experience we're sure many others will check out this energy-saving service!

Financial Aid Tip of the Month, April 2012

Compare award letters to find best college deal

By now, most high school seniors should have completed the college application process and will begin receiving financial aid award letters. Seniors and their parents should compare those letters to find the one that offers the best financial aid package, the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) advises.

The letter will usually show the total cost of attendance — what it costs to go to that school for one school year, including tuition, fees, room, meals, books, supplies, transportation and personal expenses.

It may also show how much the student's family is expected to pay toward those costs, the expected family contribution (EFC). The EFC is subtracted from the total cost of attendance to get a student's financial need. The letter will then list various sources of financial aid offered to pay for the costs not covered by the EFC. Students can accept or reject any or all of those proposed sources.

Students should consider how much of the financial

Local students accept merit-based scholarships to EKU

Hundreds of incoming freshmen and transfer students already have accepted merit-based scholarships to attend Eastern Kentucky University.

Estill County recipients include: Tatum Cantrell, Irvine, Estill County High School, Presidential Scholarship; Richard Childers, Irvine, Estill County High School, Presidential Scholarship; Corey Conrad, Irvine, Estill County High School, Presidential Scholarship; Kourtney Emmert, Irvine, Estill County High School, Presidential Scholarship; Shelby Fain, Irvine, Estill County High School, Founders Scholarship; Katelyn Martin, Irvine, Estill County High School, Governor's Scholar Regents; Peyton Martin, Irvine, Estill County High School, Presidential Scholarship; Randi Rison, Irvine, Estill County High School, Regents Scholarship; Caitlin Rowland, Irvine, Estill County High School, Presidential Scholarship; Joseph Siebeneicher, Irvine, Estill County High School, Regents Scholarship; Dreama Southern, Irvine, Colonel Scholarship; Wendy White, Irvine, Estill County High School, Founders Scholarship; and Justin Winkler, Irvine, Estill

County High School, Founders Scholarship.

"These students have found programs here at EKU that meet their needs academically, therefore Eastern is doing all it can to help them achieve their dreams financially through our merit-based scholarship program," said Brett Morris, interim director of admissions at the university. "The process is much easier now because students are granted these scholarships automatically if they qualify. There's no need for a separate application."

Students who qualify for merit-based scholarships have until May 1 to accept them, Morris said. (Additional scholarship recipients will be announced later.)

The Excellence Award, Founders Award, Regents Scholarship, Presidential Scholarship and Merit Scholarship are for incoming high school freshmen. The Colonel, Colonel Plus, Maroon and Maroon Plus scholarships are for incoming transfer students.

For more information about all the scholarships available to EKU students, visit scholarships.eku.edu or call the university's Scholarship Office at 859-622-8032.

aid will have to be paid back after finishing school, especially if the financial aid package includes federal student loans. If the package is not enough to pay all expenses, students may apply for a private education loan. Students and parents may visit www.kheaamarketplace.com to compare loan terms and interest rates to find the best private loan for their needs.

Often more expensive schools will offer scholarships that may help bring the cost of attendance in line with other, less expensive schools. Students should consider all of their options and compare costs before selecting a college or university.

Estill FCCLA member receives the Agnes Foster Golden Horizon Award

 Wendy White with Advisor: Mrs. Debbie Anders.

In addition to winning the Environmental Ambassador competition, Estill County FCCLA had a member who was the recipient of the Agnes Foster Golden Horizon Award. From the state of Kentucky, there are only eight high school seniors chosen to receive this prestigious award named for a former FCCLA adviser. Chapter advisers from across the state write letters of nomination for their students with the following criterion: he/she is constantly faithful, often working behind the scenes; display patience, a good sense of humor and flexibility; and form the foundation of FCCLA at the local level. Wendy was astonished when her name was called from the stage because even the advisers, don't know who is awarded until the banquet.

Ms. Jillian Watts has been named Educational Coordinator for the Educational Talent Search (ETS) Program at EKU. She will be working directly with ETS Scholars at Estill County Middle School, Estill County High School, Caudill Middle School, Clark Moores Middle School, Madison Middle School, and Madison Central High School. Ms. Watts brings a great deal of knowledge and experience to her new position. She most recently worked as an Adult Education Adjunct Instructor with Eastern Kentucky University (EKU) where she taught adult education classes in mathematics, language arts, study skills, college prep, and financial aid. She also worked as a graduate assistant with the EKU Student Outreach and Transition Office (SOTO), and as a Mental Health Technician at the Ridge Behavioral Health System in Lexington. In addition, she was a tutor/mentor to first year college students as an undergraduate at the University of Louisville. A native of Richmond, Jillian graduated from Model Laboratory School, and is the daughter of Liza Watts (Brackney). Jillian received a Bachelor of Science degree in Middle/Secondary Education: Social Studies (English) from the University of Louisville. She also holds a Rank I in Mentoring and Rank I & II in Tutoring. She is currently working on a Masters in Human Services: Student Personnel Services in Higher Education at EKU. In 2008, Ms. Watts was recognized for her work by the University of Louisville REACH Program, as the Most Outstanding REACH Ambassador of the Year. EKU's Educational Talent Search (ETS) Program, funded by the U.S. Department of Education, is a federal Trio Program. The main goal of ETS is to help students overcome financial obstacles, prepare for college, and become the first in their families to enroll in and graduate from college. The ETS Program hosted at Eastern Kentucky University since 1985, now serves 765 middle school and high school scholars in the following Kentucky counties: Clay, Estill, Garrard, Jackson, Lincoln, and northern Madison. The program identifies low-income and first generation individuals who have the potential and desire to succeed in some type of education after high school (such as community college, vocational/technical school, four-year college or university, and proprietary school), and assists these scholars to achieve their goals of post-secondary education success. The program provides in-school workshops and other activities to promote personal development, academic enrichment, career exploration, college preparation and knowledge, financial aid and scholarship information to all ETS scholars. In addition, our scholars are provided direct assistance with the college admission, financial aid, and scholarship application process. All services and activities are free. If you would like to nominate a student for the Educational Talent Search Program, call 859-622-5435 or you can e-mail: Jillian.Watts@eku.edu.

ENCOURAGING WORD: A NEW DAY DAWNED

Howard Coop
Guest Columnist

regardless pf the circumstance, life goes on, and a new day was dawning.

Expectations for the day were low and their spirits were lower as those three women prepared for a lonely walk through the dark and narrow streets of Jerusalem to a borrowed tomb outside the wall of the city to fulfill a most unpleasant responsibility. With the customary spices used to anoint a body before final burial, they began the trip to that borrowed tomb where the body of Jesus awaited final burial.

It was still dark on the first day of the week after the Passover. Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome made preparations for the day. So much had happened that, for them, everything seemed to be over. They faced demanding responsibilities, and those responsibilities had to be met. But

Knowing that the tomb had been sealed with a large stone and a guard posted by Roman authorities, an annoying question filled their anxious minds as they plodded along the dreary streets: “Who will roll the stone away from the entrance to the tomb?” Then, they felt the ground shake beneath their feet; “there was a violent earthquake.” When they arrived at the tomb, the guards became “like dead men,” and the large stone that sealed the tomb had been mysteriously rolled away. The open tomb was empty. They thought the worst had happened; the body of Jesus had been stolen.

But things are not always what they seem, and Yogi Berra was right when he said, “It ain’t over till it’s over.” Although those three women thought so, things weren’t over that morning. Someone Mary thought to be the gardener called her by name, and she knew! He who had been dead was alive! He had been raised from a dead level to a living perpendicular, and all was well.

As the first rays of sunlight came over the Mount of Olives, a day, surprisingly news, dawned bright and beautiful.

Thank You

On behalf of the Irvine-Ravenna Kiwanis club, I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their support of our annual pancake breakfast. First and foremost I would like to thank the community for coming out and enjoying the breakfast. It would not have been as successful as it was without you. I would also like to thank the committee of Vicki Adams, Estine Tipton, and Terry Williams for obtaining the donations from several vendors. I would like to thank the following: Citizen Voice and Times, Estill Tribune and All Things Country for the advertising, Randy and Mona Powell of Twin Cedar Embroidery for creating the banners we used around town to advertise; Carolyn Perkins for printing the tickets; Estill Springs Elementary cooks Dolly Witt and Debbie Roberts who came early and assisted the Kiwanians with preparing the food; the "cooks" Sherry Fox, Estine Tipton, Vicki Adams, Richard Snowden, Jeff Hix, Steve and Pat Garrett; Brianna Cahal from the high school Key Club who helped serve the drinks; Mark Reese, Steve Garrett, Margaret Arvin, Patty Miller, Eugene Bush, Robert Calder, Tom and Francine Bonny, Carolyn Perkins, Delvin Reece, Tina Hix, Teresa Barger. Last but not least I would like to thank Hardee's, McDonald's, Price Less, Discount Tobacco, Uncle Charlie's Meats and Veolia. We really could not have done it without your support. I hope that I have not left anyone off the list but if I have - please know that I appreciate all the help we were given.

ADAM H. EDELEN
AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

The Honorable Wallace Taylor, Estill County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Sherry L. Fox, Estill County Clerk
Members of the Estill County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the County Clerk of Estill County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2010. This financial statement is the responsibility of the County Clerk. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on this financial statement based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

As described in Note 1, the County Clerk's office prepares the financial statement on a regulatory basis of accounting that demonstrates compliance with the laws of Kentucky, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the County Clerk for the year ended December 31, 2010, in conformity with the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated December 19, 2011 on our consideration of the Estill County Clerk's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit.

Based on the results of our audit, we have presented the accompanying comment and recommendation, included herein, which discusses the following report comment:

2010-01 The County Clerk Lacks Adequate Segregation Of Duties Over Disbursements And Reconciliations

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the County Clerk and Fiscal Court of Estill County, Kentucky, and the Commonwealth of Kentucky and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Respectfully submitted,

Adam H. Edelen
Auditor of Public Accounts

Property Address: 65 North Winn Avenue, Irvine, KY 40336

A certain tract of land located on the West side of Winn Avenue, in the Wisemantown area of Estill County, Kentucky, and being more particularly described as follows:

Being the same property conveyed to Tim Boian and Rhonda Boian, husband and wife who acquired title, with rights of survivorship, by virtue of a deed from Rollin R. Bishop and Betty J. Bishop, husband and wife, date April 9, 1991, filed April 11, 1991, recorded in Deed Book 192, Page 486, County Clerk's Office, Estill County, Kentucky.

Subject to any and all applicable restrictive convents, existing easements, utility easement, right-of-way, provisions of applicable zoning statutes and ordinances, and rules and regulations of the Department of Health, if any. Also regulation that might apply thru planning & zoning.

The above described property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions:

1.The purchaser shall take the sale real estate free and clear of the claims of the parties to this action, but it shall be sold subject to the following:

a. current year (2012) ad valorem real estate taxes affecting the real estate for which the purchaser shall take no credit on the purchase price;

b. easements, restrictions, and stipulations of record;

c. any current assessments for public improvements levied against the property; and

d. any matters which would be disclosed by an accurate survey or inspection of the property.

2. The sale shall be made to the highest and best bidder or bidders. The successful bidder shall pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for sixty (60) days. Any purchaser, other than the Plaintiff, who does not pay cash in full, shall be required to execute a bond, with surety thereon acceptable to the Master Commissioner to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price and sale bond shall bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of sale until paid, and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain and be a lien on the property until paid. The purchasers shall have the privilege of paying all of the balance of the purchase price prior to the expiration of the sixty (60) day period.

3. The successful bidder at sale, at bidder's own expense, may carry fire and extended insurance coverage on the improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, in an amount at least sufficient to cover a loss to the extent of the court appraised value of the improvements on the real estate or the unpaid balance of the purchase price is fully paid, in the amount whichever is less, with the loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance coverage shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability there under, but shall entitle, but not require, any party adjudicated an interest in the real estate, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish evidence of the policy to the Master Commissioner. The premium of the insurance policy shall then be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost.

4. In the event the Plaintiff becomes the purchaser of the real estate at the Master Commissioner's sale, and it the Plaintiff's bid if less that its lien adjudged herein, Plaintiff may comply with the terms of sale by taking credit upon this Judgment without making the cash deposit or execution the sale bond as provided for in this Judgment.

2. The sale shall be made to the highest and best bidder or bidders. The successful bidder shall pay cash or make a deposit of twenty percent (20%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. Any purchaser, who does not pay cash in full, shall be required to execute a bond, with surety thereon acceptable to the Master Commissioner to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price and sale bond shall bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of sale until paid, and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain and be a lien on the property until paid. The purchasers shall have the privilege of paying all of the balance of the purchase price prior to the expiration of the thirty (30) day period.

3.The successful bidder at sale, at bidder's own expense, may carry fire and extended insurance coverage on the improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, in an amount at least sufficient to cover a loss to the extent of the court appraised value of the improvements on the real estate or the unpaid balance of the purchase price is fully paid, in the amount which-ever is less, with the loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance coverage shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability there under, but shall entitle, but not require, any party adjudicated an interest in the real estate, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish evidence of the policy to the Master Commissioner. The premium of the insurance policy shall then be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost.

Criteria used for the judging will include appearance/overall impression, creativity/originality, composition/spatial arrangement, thematic use of mushrooms and use of the theme. The theme will be "Happy 200th Birthday Irvine." The window decorations may include painting and/or an inside window display. Outside decorations will not be judged.

Prize money from the Festival Committee and rosettes will be awarded to the top three. The first place winner will receive $75 and a blue rosette. The second place will receive $50 and a red rosette and the third place winner will receive $30 and a white rosette.

Businesses may decorate their own window or ask an organization, such as a church, school youth group or civic organization, to decorate a window. Also if a group or organization would like to decorate a window for a business or office contact Irvine City Hall.

To enter the contest or offer the use of your window, even if you don't want to decorate it yourself, call Irvine City Hall at 723-2554. Call Irvine City Hall too if your group would like to decorate a window for a business. Enter by Thurs., April 19 at 4 p.m. Prize winners will be photographed for promotion purposes.

Agate Hunt

There is an abundance of minerals such as iron ore. Millions of years ago agates were formed by minerals filling a cavity in a host rock, creating the "gem of the hills." The Kentucky agate is prized by collectors world-wide for its bright red bands and other spectacular colors. The rare agate has only been found in Estill and five other surrounding counties.

Case finds more than two pounds of white morel mushrooms

Gary Case of Irvine, gathered two pounds 12 ounce of white morel mushrooms on Thursday, March 22. Case said that it only took him about 45 minutes to gather his bounty and that the morels are at least two to three weeks early this year. Case also stated that you normally find the black morel mushrooms before the white ones, but that he hadn't seen any yet so far. This is the second batch of Morel's Case has found within a week.

Finding any mushrooms?

Take a picture of them and send it to the CV&T , PO Box 660, Irvine, Ky. 40336 or bring it to our offices at 108 Court Street. If you don't have a camera, bring your mushrooms in and one of our staff will be glad to take your picture with them.

Good Friday is traditional potato planting time

With the early arrival of spring and Good Friday coming up, this weekend might be a good one for playing in the dirt.

Planting potatoes on Good Friday is a long time tradition for many. I'm not sure why, unless someone was thinking that the same power that raised Jesus from the dead could surely raise the potatoes.

That makes sense to me, but it's likely that this tradition originated with our spud-lovin' ancestors from Ireland.

Though we think Irish and potatoes go together like peanut butter and jelly, centuries ago, Catholics in Ireland wouldn't eat potatoes because they weren't mentioned in the Bible. They eventually changed their minds, but the potatoes had to be sprinkled with holy water first and planted on Good Friday.

Some gardeners still plant according to "the signs." The Farmers' Almanac says the best time to plant potatoes is in the dark of the moon.

There's a full moon on Good Friday, and the best dates for planting underground crops this month are supposed to be the 12th and 13th.

Here's my theory about planting potatoes—if the ground is dry enough to work and the danger of killing frost is past, then what in the world are we waiting for?

The whole "potatoes have eyes" thing is amazing to me. How likely is it that a chunk cut off the side of a potato and stuck in the ground could produce more potatoes?

But that's part of the fun of growing your own food. You learn that those funny little dimpled places in potatoes will sprout and grow into bushy plants which will produce a bucketful of tasty tubers to mash, fry, boil or bake.

According to the wealth of knowledge available on the Internet, "chitting" can help produce a potato harvest sooner. Gardeners can place potatoes in egg cartons or other shallow trays and set them on a windowsill where they will receive plenty of light. Once the potatoes have sprouts about an inch long, they are ready to plant.

Because they sprout sooner this way, the amount of time it takes for the plant to emerge from the ground after the seed potato is planted is reduced, and that means harvest time could come sooner—as much as two or three weeks sooner.

To produce bigger potatoes, try rubbing off all but a couple of shoots on each piece of potato before you plant it.

Now for those of us who've ever planted homegrown potatoes left over from the previous year, we know the sprouting is likely to happen without much effort on our part.

However, many people buy their seed potatoes and the eyes on them are often so hard to see that you almost have to work with a magnifying glass to know where to cut them.

Whether you "chit" your potatoes or not, it's a good idea to cut the potatoes a day or two before you plant them. The cut will harden a bit which is supposed to make the potato more resistant to diseases.

You can even cut them up several weeks before you want to plant them. They won't rot for a long time if kept in a cool dark place.

We like to stagger our plantings so we can harvest new potatoes throughout the summer.

Regardless of when you plant them, few things are better from the garden than a tasty ol' tater.

Getting back to nature one fish at a time

Megan Parker
Columnist

I've never been much of a fisherman, well in my case fisherwoman, but that all changed four years ago. I married an avid fisher. Oh, boy!

I don't like the smell of fish, I refuse to take them off of the hooks, especially after my husband informed me that some of them will cut you with their... well, I wasn't paying that much attention. Not to mention the fact that I apologize to all the worms that I put on the hook. They didn't do anything, but that's just the circle of life.

A few weeks ago, against me protesting, my husband went out and bought our fishing license. He said that now I didn't have an excuse not to go with him. Shoot fire! Hey, I tried.

So the next morning he wakes me up at the crack of dawn to drive 100 miles in the middle of nowhere to this little pond that might be as big as one of those 4 foot above ground pools. Did I mention it was in the middle of nowhere?

Of course I wasn't going unprepared. I took my fold out chair, a book, my purple fishing pole, and of course my camera.

It was early and kinda chilly and I just knew that I wasn't going to like this whole fishing experience, until I caught the first fish. That's right! My line had barely touched water when I saw that floater go under.

Now I was excited! Timmy is always catching the large fish, while I catch what he deems as bait. It didn't matter that my fish was only about a pound, give or take a few ounces. Okay, take a few ounces, but I had caught a fish, I still wasn't taking it off the hook though.

After a few hours

I took pictures of wild flowers and clover and everything that caught my eye. I probably wandered around these woods for a good hour. On our way back to civilization (Okay, it wasn't that far out in the middle of nowhere. This is a fishing tale, we are suppose to exaggerate) Timmy asked if I enjoyed fishing.

My answer, "Yep, as long as I get to catch the first fish and take my camera." Looks like I'll be fishing a lot this summer.

Herbert Hoover once

of catching blue gill and releasing them (I probably caught the same fish over and over again), I got bored. I didn't feel like reading, so I picked up my camera and started walking around.

said, "Fishing is much more than fish. It is the great occasion when we may return to the fine simplicity of our forefathers." To this I would add, and the beauty of Mother Nature.
